Library Vocabulary – Do you know it?

Do you know your library vocabulary? Many people use libraries, but don't know library jargon. Here are some common terms and acronyms we use at Mason and what they mean. Be sure to look at the "Library Lending Requests" diagram on the inside for a visual representation of CLS, ICL and ILL.

Circulation – Borrowing. Circulation is the process of books moving from stacks to the hands of a willing reader and back again. This includes checking out a book, renewing a book and returning a book.

CLS – Stands for "Consortium Loan Service" for the Washington Research Library Consortium or WRLC. This is another lending program that allows the circulation of books and serials between the universities in the greater DC area.

eReserves – Reserve items that are housed online and accessed through the University Library homepage. You must have a password from your teacher to access these items.

ICL – Stands for "InterCampus Lending." This service is InterLibrary Loan on a smaller scale where books and serials are shared between the four Mason campus libraries. You can have the books and articles you need sent to the campus where you study.

ILL – Stands for "InterLibrary Loan." InterLibrary loan is a service available to Mason students, faculty and staff that allows them to borrow books from any library worldwide.

iMasonLibraries – An instant messaging resource for reference questions. You can use AIM, MSN Messenger, or Yahoo! Messenger to chat in real time with a Mason Librarian.

InfoGuides – A new research resource that has been compiled by Mason Subject Librarians to aid students and teachers in their course work. These guides are for research assistance and can contain recommended websites and databases, books, journals, theses and dissertations, maps, and current news on a large variety of subjects.

LC Classification System – A call number system developed by the Library of Congress and used in most higher education libraries. Books are arranged by subject assigned to a letter from A to Z followed by a series of numbers, designating the book's location in the library stacks.

Reference – Information sources that are not circulated outside the library. Common reference sources include encyclopedias, handbooks, citation manuals and directories. Reference also refers to the friendly librarians that answer your research questions in person, on the phone, or online through iMasonLibraries chat.

Reserves – Books, articles, and audio/visual media designated by teachers for classes. These items are kept behind the circulation desk and are only available for use within the library.

Serials – Journals, newspapers, magazines and other periodicals in the library. Serials can also be bound into books. They are arranged alphabetically by title instead of classification number in the library stacks.

Zotero – Citation management software for the creation of bibliographies developed by George Mason's Center for History and New Media. It is available for free. Download at www.zotero.org and never have to write bibliographic information down again!

Library Lending Requests - How it works

When seeking materials for use and research, please follow this simple order: Start with Mercer Library. If we don't have it, look at other Mason Campus libraries like Fenwick, the Johnson Center, and Arlington. If Mason doesn't have it, look at the libraries in the consortium through WRLC. If they don't have it, submit a request through InterLibrary Loan and we will find it for you. The farther away from Mercer Library your item is requested, the longer it will take for you to receive your item.

E-Resources - Featured databases and updates

Do you search for medical and health care information online? We have some recommendations as to databases you can use: CINAHL, PsycINFO, MEDLINE, Alt HealthWatch and SPORTDiscus.

CINAHL is the authoritative resource for nursing and allied health professionals, students, educators and researchers. This database provides indexing for 2,928 journals from the fields of nursing and allied health. The database contains more than 1,000,000 records dating back to 1981.

The PsycINFO database is the American Psychological Association's (APA) renowned resource for abstracts of scholarly journal articles, book chapters, books, and dissertations and is the largest resource devoted to peer-reviewed literature in behavioral science and mental health. It contains over 2.5 million citations and summaries dating as far back as the early 1800s. Journal coverage, which spans from 1887 to present, includes international material selected from more than 2,200 periodicals in more than 27 languages.

MEDLINE provides authoritative medical information on medicine, nursing, dentistry, veterinary medicine, the health care system, pre-clinical sciences, and much more. Created by the National Library of Medicine, MEDLINE uses MeSH (Medical Subject Headings) indexing with tree, tree hierarchy, subheadings and explosion capabilities to search citations from over 4,800 current biomedical journals.

Alt HealthWatch: This database focuses on the many perspectives of complementary, holistic and integrated approaches to health care and wellness. It offers libraries full text articles for more than 180 international and often peer-reviewed journals and reports. In addition, there are hundreds of pamphlets, booklets, special reports, original research and book excerpts. Alt HealthWatch provides in-depth coverage across the full spectrum of subject areas covered by complementary and alternative medicine. This database features indexing and abstracts going back as far as 1984, and full text going back as far as 1990.

Provided by the Sport Information Resource Centre, SPORTDiscus offers comprehensive, bibliographic coverage of sport, fitness and related disciplines. This database contains well over 1,392,000 records with journal and monograph coverage going back to 1800; over 22,000 dissertations and theses and reference to articles in 60 different languages.

GMU-affiliated researchers can access these databases from the databases category on the GMU Libraries Home Page. Off campus access is restricted to current GMU students, faculty, and staff.

Events at Gunston Hall
